The Why of It.

Judge Bronson, the Collector of New York, has obtained one of the objects after which he has been striving. From his first letter to a Democratic meeting at Tammany Hall, to his last to Secretary Guthrie, he has been steadily aspiring to the Crown of Martyrdom. He has itched to be turned out, so that he might thus establish a claim to the leadership of the malcontents, and be carried into the United States Senate by virtue of a coalition between these malcontents aforesaid and their nominal opponents of the Whig party; and already we find movements made in Orange and other river Counties to bring him prominently forward in this connection. He will be the candidate of the Gormandizers of both parties. Talking of Gormandizers, and why they don't think the Administration national enough, the Washington correspondent of a Baltimore paper sketches an interview between the Postmaster General and "an influential committee from New York," which had come on to Washington to get a contract for a line of small Steamers to meet the European Steamers outside and carry up the mails in a hurry. For this service some very considerable number of thousands was modestly asked. Mr. Campbell demurred, alleging the fact that the necessity for such a thing was very doubtful indeed, and certainly no such extravagance could be indulged in while vast tracts of country in the more remote portions of the Union were destitute of any mail facilities. The men went away fully persuaded that Mr. Campbell was a man destitute of liberality of feeling, and not at all "national." Such an idea as wasting a thought upon North Carolina or Alabama or Wisconsin, when the great "national" Gormandizers of New York wanted all the money. Why, the man actually refused the request of "an influential committee from New York," a cabinet composed of such men ought to be turned out.

A Mistake, or a Misrepresentation. Speaking of the N. C. Statesman, the proposed new paper at Raleigh, the Fayetteville Observer says: "The Standard and the Wilmington Journal have already begun the war upon it, as the organ of the disorganizers." This is not so. We like to give every newspaper enterprise a fair and friendly notice, but do not wish that such usual editorial courtesy should be construed as an approval of any principles or positions from which we dissent and regard as dangerous; and we express such dissent to prevent any chance of our own views being misunderstood. Disorganization itself being fairly exposed, no necessity can exist for making war upon the mere instruments of disorganization. Can the Observer have so soon forgotten the last Congressional canvass in this district? The exposure of error or party infidelity leaves their mere propagators in the position of Othello when his occupation was gone, whereas a denunciation of the propagators, however well deserved, may enable them to raise the cry of persecution and excite a sympathy even for their very errors. It is generally the quickest and most effectual plan to let them alone very severely.

But, in truth, we like the plan adopted by the English papers, at least, those of any standing, which is to combat the positions of those in opposition, and not to single out each individual cotemporary as a gladiatorial rival. The matters in controversy are, perhaps, of public importance—the mere combats of newspapers can interest very few, if any.

FINE PAPER.—We have received from David Murphy, Esq., a bundle of his fine printing paper, recently exhibited at the State Fair, and which took the premium there. It is of snowy whiteness and beautiful staple, and would show to great advantage for fine pamphlets or other work. Who's the next customer?

PORTSMOUTH, of the Portsmouth Globe, is down upon us for saying that Portsmouth looked rather dead, when we passed through there last week.—Easy enough accounted for, friend BADGER, since we had not the pleasure of your company to enliven it. Portsmouth is a great place, but not what its harbor entitles it to. The Oystermen and Editors are capital, and "all alive."

THE EUROPEAN NEWS.—It would seem that the advances point to war between Turkey and Russia as inevitable, and we cannot bring ourselves to believe that in that case, the two powers more immediately involved, will be the only ones. Even the Napoleon did not dare concede to Alexander of Russia, the possession of Constantinople; and what was impossible, or even difficult for him, would be madness for his lessor namesake, Louis Napoleon. It would shock the pride of the French people, and pave the way for his speedy downfall, by alienating the affections of the ambitious soldiery. Can England see the Dardanelles—the mouth of the Black Sea—the granary of Europe—in the possession of a power whose growing preponderance she already regards with jealousy and uneasiness. The time is not yet come for the utter fall of Turkey, and that is about all that seem possible to infer from the present aspect of things. A few weeks will, perhaps, reveal a great many things now dreamed of.

GRAND DIVISION.—The following is the list of officers elected by the Grand Division of the Sons of Temperance for the State of North Carolina at its session in this town this week: Bro. C. F. Deems, G. W. P.; D. S. Hill, G. W. A.; A. M. Gorman, G. S.; W. M. Johnson, G. T.; J. J. Williams, G. C.; A. C. Harris, G. S.; Sam'l Pearce, G. Chaplain.

The above officers were installed by Bro. S. W. Whiting, D. G. W. P.

MEASUR.—We learn that a negro man belonging to Dr. John McKay was killed at a corn shucking in the upper end of this county a week or two ago, by a young man named Gots, who made his escape. The negro was shot with a pistol, in consequence, it is said, of some previous altercation.

The mother of Cutts, who is esteemed in her neighborhood as a good woman, has been sorely afflicted.—Her husband was drowned when in a state of intoxication. A son was killed in a rencounter; and now another son has committed murder and fled.

Cotton Market. New York, Oct. 26, P. M.—There is quite an active movement in the Cotton market, owing to accounts from the South of early frosts, and an apprehension that the crop may be injured. I note also an active shipping demand, with some speculative movement. The sales to-day were 3,000 bales at 1 advance on yesterday. Sales since Monday of 9,500 bales, closing to-day at 9 1/4 for Middling Up-Lands; Middling Mobile 9 1/4; Middling Orleans 9 1/4 at 9 1/4 cents per lb.

Retirement of an Editor. WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—Charles Eames has ceased all editorial connection with the Washington Union.

Marine Disaster. NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—The French Steamer, Bound from Wilmington to Boston, was abandoned at sea on the 18th, having lost her foremast and being full of water. The captain and crew were taken off and brought here by the bark Virginia.

The State Canvass of 1854.

The canvass for Governor and members of the Legislature which occurs next year in this State, will be one of the most important that has been decided by the citizens of North Carolina since the formation of the new Constitution. The result will probably decide the political complexion of the State Government for a series of years, and determine whether Democratic principles, administered by Democratic men, shall control, or whether the old Whig regime shall be re-instated into power. The most important immediate consequences depending upon the result of this canvass, are the choice of two United States Senators, whose election will devolve upon the next Legislature. Secondary in importance to these, are the various State offices, which are filled by the Legislature. Thus, not only its remote, but its immediate consequences conspire to render the State canvass of 1854 one of prominent importance to the citizens of our State.

But while the canvass is regarded by both the political parties as of great importance, it is looked to with peculiar interest by the whole Democratic party of the State. For a number of years they battled against a firm and unyielding majority, the result of each successive canvass for Governor being the announcement of a Whig victory. The Democratic party faltered not, but true to its principles, and devoted their success, pursued that object with determined energy, activity and zeal. In 1848, our present excellent Governor, the gallant Reid, was placed in the field; he seized the Democratic banner, and writing thereon Free Suffrage, broke the centre of the Whig phalanx. Again in 1850 that banner was placed in his hands, and now led to victory. Again in 1852 he was selected to lead the Democratic party, and again routed the Whigs, led on by their chosen champion, horse, foot and dragons. In November following, the vote of the State was given to Franklin Pierce for President. Should these victories be sealed, as it were, by another equally glorious, it will be regarded as decisive, for years to come, of the political character of the State. The canvass for Governor will greatly influence the complexion of the Legislature, and through it affect the results dependent upon its action. For these reasons, Democrats feel a deep interest in the canvass of next year, and of course in the selection of a candidate for the office of Governor.

It is obvious that it will be the duty and the interest of the party, in addition to choosing a sound and reliable Democrat, to select an available man—by which we mean, one able to promulgate and defend the principles of his party before the people, thoroughly imbued with Democratic feelings and sentiments, and possessing agreeable and attractive manners. Justice and propriety would also dictate that the claims of a section of the State not recently honored with a nomination, should be considered. And here we will remark, that while the Democratic strength lies in the East, the first four Congressional districts being Democratic—three by very large majorities—we can assure the Democrats of the West that their Eastern brethren entertain the most liberal feelings towards them. The difficulties under which they have labored are fully appreciated, and their indomitable perseverance under the most discouraging circumstances, elicited the warmest admiration. They desire to be liberal not only in the conferment of honors, but also in legislating, always having a due regard to the interests of the State at large: more than this, no true Western man can ask. In the selection of a candidate for Governor, therefore, we do not hesitate to say, that we should be gratified to see the honor conferred upon, on a Western man, pledging to him in advance the united support of the Democracy of the East.

Of the individuals whose names have been mentioned in this connection, DR. COLUMBUS MILLS, of Rutherford county, has been received with great favor in this section of the State by those who have the pleasure of knowing him. He possesses all the elements calculated to ensure success—unexceptional antecedents, captivating manners, an able and powerful debater, and is a firm, unflinching, working Democrat. Owing to the fact of his being a citizen of a county usually giving several hundred Whig majority, he has had little opportunity of making himself known to the public. He has served but one session in the Legislature—as a Senator in the session of 1846-7 when he won for himself the favorable opinion of all with whom he came in contact, and the confidence of his party. The fact of his election on one occasion, and his defeat by only a few votes on another, when he was opposed by an influential Whig, in a County of such decided political character as Rutherford, is proof of his popularity at home; in a wider field the qualities which have gained for him the confidence of his neighbors, would secure him favor with the public. In his County canvass he espoused the cause of Free Suffrage, and opposed earnestly the calling of a Convention to amend the Constitution, thus placing himself emphatically and clearly on the platform of the Democracy of the State. In the Senate he distinguished himself by defending the National Administration of Mr. Polk, opposing the passage of the notorious Mexican preamble of the Whigs who voted the war with Mexico to have been commenced by the unconstitutional act of the President. During the same session with commendable liberality which we will not forget, and which gained for him many friends in this section of the State, he sustained the measures designed to relieve the Wilmington Railroad from pressing embarrassments.—His legislative services mark the liberal yet prudent man. In the prime of life, of sterling integrity, and a cultivated intellect, he would make a most acceptable Governor. While we have confidence in the ability of the Democracy to carry the State under any leader who may be selected, and against the most determined efforts of the Whigs, we know of no individual who would be likely to receive a larger majority than DR. MILLS.

Agreeably to the time-honored usage of the party, a Convention will, of course, be held to select a candidate. Whoever is chosen the bearer of the standard in the next canvass, we shall most cheerfully support. What we have said is not designed to anticipate the action of the Convention, but principally to call the attention of the Democrats of the East to the merits of a gentleman who has had little opportunity of achieving a State reputation.

DEATH OF THE "OLDEST INHABITANT."—A friend writes to us, that on the 15th ult., died on the plantation of Edmund B. Richardson, in Bladen county, N. C. JENY, a slave, aged one hundred and ten years! She was a faithful servant, and maintained a good moral character. She was one of eight slaves who, nearly 60 years ago, were the first settlers on the plantation where she died, within one mile of the Cape Fear river. Of the other seven, one died over 90 years of age, another 93, and a third 81. Two are yet living, one 75 and the other over 60 years of age. Within five miles of the place where JENY died, lived William Prigden, whose death, at the age of 122 years, we recorded some four or five years ago.—Observer.

A private dispatch received in this city, from Capt. R. S. PARKER, her commander, dated New York, October 26, 5 p. m., states that the schr. E. A. Henning has been lost. We are gratified, however, to learn that all the hands were saved, as also the cargo. E. A. Henning, left Key West on the 12th inst., with the Havana and Key West Mails, and was lost on the passage to this port.—The Captain, passengers and crew, must have been picked up by some vessel bound to New York.
